Note that the period at the end of the URL indicates the end of this part of the citation. The URL is located at the end of the Works Cited entry.

 Date of Access Note: IF your website source doesn't have dates, OR IF your website source is a blog OR another type of source that updates frequently AND DOES NOT have an archive where you can go back and see previous days, then use an ACCESSED DATE after the URL in the entry. It's just a regular MLA date: _____. Accessed dates are only rarely necessary.
